

Free Program at the Bonham Theatre!

Monday, March 25th, 7-8pm

NASA Ambassador Bob Kavinsky will present a program about the upcoming Solar Eclipse!

On April 8th a Total Solar Eclipse will occur from southern Texas through the northeastern United States. Nebraska experienced the last Total Eclipse in 2017. This time, eastern Nebraska will experience about 75-80% sun coverage.

Sponsored by the Fairbury Public Library, Mr. Kavinsky will give an update on the April 8th total solar eclipse with guidance on how to observe the partial eclipse here in Nebraska. He will also show some highlights from the James Webb Space Telescope.

See it all on the big screen!

Following the program, everyone will receive a pair of solar eclipse safe viewing glasses. Children will receive an activity book or coloring pages to take home!
